

Information Literacy & Outreach Programs at the JPL Library

Presentation to UCLA Library Information Literacy Team

By Robert Powers,

December 12, 2002

Presenter will discuss the development and implementation of library outreach services at JPL, including discovering the needs of the various levels of user. Discussion will include marketing services to the user community: open houses, poster sessions, etc. Examples of outreach and information literacy work at JPL will be discussed. Information resource training for individuals, for departments, and across departments on specific subjects will be discussed. Customized services to individuals and to departments will also be reviewed.
